No. 51.—Notes on the Rainfall and General Weather Conditions in Western Australia during January, February and March, 1955.

January.

Pressure and Wind.—Property at Roebourne and Wittenoom Gorge was severely damaged and a washaway caused on the Trans-Continental line by the tropical cyclone which crossed the north-west coast during the early morning of the 1st. After passing close to Roebourne, with winds estimated at 100 m.p.h., it accelerated. By 9 a.m. on the 2nd its centre was approximately 60 miles north-west of Wittenoom Gorge. Twenty-four hours later it was situated in the eastern Bight, having crossed the south coast just east of Eucla.

Meanwhile a belt of high pressure was developing south of the State and in conjunction with a series of low pressure troughs along the west coast caused easterly winds in all divisions during the first eleven days.

On the 10th, falling bars and strong winds aloft indicated the presence of a low pressure system off the north-west coast. The following day it was identified as a second cyclone and at 9 a.m. was 110 miles due west of Broome, moving south-eastwards.

Crossing the coast in the vicinity of Anna Plains, it moved inland for approximately 300 miles. A south-westerly course was then assumed which by the 14th centred it in a modified form, just west of Southern Cross.

The cyclone caused gales in the tropics and damaged coastal property. However, as it moved over the North-Eastern and Gascoyne Divisions winds abated as the system weakened and no further damage was reported.

In the sub-tropics easterly winds persisted throughout the passage of the cyclone but by the 14th winds in Western Divisions had veered southerly, soon to be backed east-north-easterly under the influence of a trough along the west coast.

During the following week all divisions reported hot east-north-easterly winds which were replaced by cooler southerlies in Western districts as a cold front crossed the south-west coast on the 21st.

Influenced by a trough in the tropics, winds over all divisions backed easterly during the following two days. On the 24th a westerly change associated with a southern depression gradually extended inland and during the next three days cooler west-south-westerly winds flowed over the sub-tropics behind a series of cold fronts.

By the 28th winds were gradually backing easterly and the month ended with hot north-easterlies in all divisions.

Rainfall.—The two cyclones brought some heavy falls to tropical divisions, the highest twenty-four hour reading being 708 points at Roebourne on the 1st. Falls of varying intensity were also recorded almost daily in the Kimberleys as the result of thunderstorms. On the 18th, 230 points fell at Wyndham while a few stations recorded over an inch on various days. At most stations in the tropics rains were above average and Wittenoom Gorge and Kalumburu recorded 1064 points and 1038 points respectively.

Both cyclones caused good rains to the East Gascoynes. Falls from the earlier disturbances were widespread and mainly heavy while the later storm brought lighter rains, though totals were just as high. On the 18th and during the following week light to moderate scattered rain was recorded in both eastern and western districts. This was the only rain recorded in the West Gascoyne.

The second cyclone caused moderate to heavy rain in the North Coastal and light rains in the North Central sub-divisions. Apart from some scattered and mainly light falls later in the month this was the only rain recorded in the coastal area, no more was recorded in the North Central. Most places in the North Coastal recorded well above average falls while in the Central totals were about normal.

Falls in Central Coastal and South Central sub-divisions were light and scattered and a number of places reported no rain at all. In the South Coastal sub-division falls were scattered during the first three weeks but in the last week wide-spread light to moderate rains were recorded.

Stations in the North-Eastern Division and adjacent parts of the South-Eastern Division received heavy falls during the first three days and also in the second and third weeks when light rains extended further south into the Salmon Gums-Grass Patch area. Apart from these rains which resulted from cyclonic activity no other falls were recorded. Totals for the divisions are well above average, Mount Sir Samuel registering over eight inches.

Rawlinna and Eucla reported totals of over an inch for the first two days. Except for a few very light falls later in the month no other rain was recorded in the Division though the district average is above normal.

Temperatures.—Temperatures ranged from 40 degrees at Wandering on the 2nd and 3rd to 112 degrees at Onslow, Pallotine Mission and Anna Plains on the 9th, 28th and 29th respectively.

In the tropics they were about average and centuries were recorded daily. During the first two days and between the 12th and 18th temperatures were below normal in all Divisions except the South-West. In this district they were above at most centres during the 20 days following the 3rd. After a welcome cool spell between the 24th and 27th they again rose above normal in all Divisions.

Metropolitan.—Temperatures in Perth ranged from 49.4 degrees on the 2nd to 101.7 degrees on the 23rd.

Maximum temperatures were almost consistently above average. On 23 days they were over 85 degrees. This is a record for January. However, the mean maximum of 87.4 degrees which was 2.8 degrees above average was only the highest since 1949 when it was one degree higher. The mean minimum of 64.9 degrees (1.7 degrees above average) was lower than last year when it was 65.1 degrees.

Sixteen points of rain fell in Perth during four days. This total was 15 points below average. The highest wind was 38 m.p.h. from the south-west on the 2nd.

February.

Pressure and Wind.—The dominant feature of the pressure pattern this month was a deep low pressure trough covering the tropics and most of the sub-tropics. In addition to this the oceanic highs followed a more southerly track than during the past few months. As a result of this pressure distribution winds were easterly with coastal sea breezes on most days of the month except in the Kimberley Divisions where westerlies prevailed.

Rainfall.—The sub-tropics received widespread rain and at many stations the heaviest rains ever recorded in February. The rains which were responsible for heavy flooding in several areas, caused washaways and severely disorganised traffic and communications over widespread areas.

The greatest proportion of the rains were recorded between the 14th and 18th, with totals for the four days ranging from above one inch in the Eastern Goldfields to slightly more than eleven inches in the Central South sub-division. Twenty-four hour totals of three inches and above were common during this period in the South-West Division.

Good rains were recorded in most tropical divisions and pastoral areas of the sub-tropics. In the tropics, the East and North Kimberley Divisions were above average, but the remainder were below. The West Gascoyne and southern parts of the East Gascoyne recorded above normal totals, the rains in the latter area being particularly good.

The highest total for the month was 1389 points at Kalumburu and the highest daily fall was 786 points at Arthur on the 18th.

Temperature.—During the first nine days in the sub-tropics temperatures were equally distributed above and below normal, but during the following eight days they were substantially below average. For the remainder of the month maximum temperatures were persistently higher than normal.

In the tropics above average temperatures were recorded on all days except between the 13th and 18th.

The highest temperature, 118 degrees was recorded at Onslow on the 7th and the lowest 50 degrees at Manjimup on the 5th.

Metropolitan.—The weather in Perth this month has been particularly variable. Following the first ten days when temperatures were alternately above and below normal on the next eight days they were persistently below average and on the 14th the lowest maximum for February, 66.9 degrees, was recorded. From the 19th until the end of the month the maximum temperature each day was above 90 degrees. The highest temperature, 105 degrees, 19.8 degrees above normal, was recorded on the 21st.

The average minimum for the month was the second highest on record and the lowest was 60.1 degrees on the 6th, 3.4 degrees below average.

Rainfall was recorded on seven days and the total of 655 points is the highest February rainfall on record for Perth. The total of 343 points to 9 a.m. on the 17th was the second highest 24 hour total recorded in Perth.

The winds were easterly throughout most of the month. The highest wind velocity was 43 m.p.h. from the south-east on the 17th.

March.

Pressure and Wind.—The low pressure trough prominent last month along the North-West Coast, persisted during March. This system occasionally extended down the coast and in association with a belt of high pressure just south of the State, caused mainly easterly winds in all divisions except the West Kimberley and De Grey, where westerlies predominated.

Temperature.—In the tropics and northern sub-tropics maxima were generally above average throughout the month. Except on the 6th centuries were recorded every day the highest being 113 degrees at Hamelin Pool on the 2nd.

Maxima in the remainder of the State were mainly below average until the 14th, when north-easterlies caused rising temperatures. Except on the 21st and 22nd they remained above average until after the 26th when there was a general fall.

Minimum temperatures fell below 40 degrees twice, Bridgetown recording 39 degrees and 37 degrees on the 13th and 31st respectively.

The latter is the lowest temperature in the State since the 3rd of December when 35 degrees was recorded at Wandering.

Rainfall.—Moderate to heavy rain fell in the Kimberleys between the 5th and 10th, Kalumburu recording $11\frac{1}{2}$ inches on the 9th. Although there were further isolated falls of varying intensity in the tropics, the North Kimberley was the only tropical division to exceed its district average.

With the exception of 109 points at Westonia only light and scattered rain had fallen in the sub-tropics by the 24th. On the following day however thunderstorm activity resulted in some heavy falls in the central areas of the South-West District, most places reporting rain. Scattered light rain was also reported from the South-Eastern Division and the South-West Coastal Districts.

During the remainder of the month falls were reported from all Divisions except the West Gascoyne. Widespread moderate to heavy rain was recorded in the South-Eastern, during the last two days Leonora reporting 198 points and Agnew 193 points on the 30th. Moderate rain was also reported from most places in the central areas of the South-West and East Gascoyne Divisions.

Metropolitan.—Five points recorded on the 27th was Perth's only rain for March, although some was reported in suburbs on the 28th and 29th. The average rainfall for Perth in March is 81 points.

The average maximum 84 degrees was 2.2 degrees above normal, and the average minimum 64.7 degrees was 3.3 degrees above. Temperatures ranged from 101.9 degrees on the 16th to 56.2 degrees on the 31st with maxima on seven days above 90 degrees, and minima on eight days below 60 degrees. The minimum of the 31st was the lowest since January 2nd and the mean minimum of the month the highest since 1948, when it was 65.5 degrees.

The highest wind recorded was 38 m.p.h. from the east on the 24th. On three other occasions gusts exceeded 35 m.p.h.
